

American Philological Association

Acknowledgment of Gateway Campaign and Annual Giving Contributions

2009-2010

The American Philological Association salutes its members and friends who made contributions to the Annual Giving Campaign during the last fiscal year (July 2009-June 2010) and to the Gateway Campaign for the Endowment for Classics Research and Teaching from the inception of that campaign in Fall 2005 through September 30, 2010. Gifts to the two campaigns are listed separately on the following pages. The Association is very grateful to its donors who are providing this vital support at a critical time.

The APA has made every effort to ensure the accuracy of these lists. Please call the APA office at 215-898-4975 or email carewj@sas.upenn.edu if you have questions or if you find an error.

2009-2010 Annual Giving Report

APA members responded with generosity to the Association's annual giving appeals during the fiscal year that just ended. Three hundred thirty (330) donors, representing 11.4% of all individual members contributed over $39,000. Contributions to our current Gateway to Gatekeeper capital campaign to raise an Endowment for Classics Research and Teaching are not included in this Annual Giving Report. See the following acknowledgments of pledges and gifts to the Endowment.

Contributions to the Annual Giving Campaign are critical to the yearly operations of the American Philological Association. The donations cover costs which cannot be met by membership fees alone and are applied to the annual meeting and placement service, and, when designated by donors, programs such as the American Office of l'Année philologique and the TLL Fellowship. The Board of Directors thanks the members who understand that the Association continues to rely on the income generated by annual giving for ongoing expenses as it conducts the capital campaign. It is not easy to provide simultaneously for the present and the future, but the members cited on the following pages have done just that for the Association during the last fiscal year. We urge you to join them by returning your Fall 2010 annual giving appeal response card or by making a contribution through our secure web site: http://apaclassics.org/index.php/support_the_APA/

The members listed below made contributions to the Association in one or more of the following ways: (1) in response to the Fall 2009 annual giving appeal, (2) along with payment of dues for 2010, (3) along with payment of registration fees for the 2010 annual meeting, (4) in response to the Spring 2010 annual giving appeal (although contributions made in response to this appeal after June 30, 2010 will be acknowledged next year). The list also includes the name of two new life members of the Association for 2010. Their names are followed by an asterisk (*). The Fall and Spring annual giving appeals continued our recent practice of permitting members making donations at or above $250 to use their gifts to honor a revered teacher. Please note that not all qualifying donors chose to make such a designation.

FROM GATEKEEPER TO GATEWAY

The Campaign for Classics in the 21st Century

Capital Campaign Report

The American Philological Association deeply appreciates the following donors who have made contributions to Gatekeeper to Gateway: The Campaign for Classics in the 21st Century through September 30, 2010. As a result of their generous support the Association

- has claimed three installments of the National Endowment for the Humanities' matching grant (a total of $460,000)
- has raised three quarters of the amount ($2.6 million) needed to claim all challenge grant funds available by the recently extended deadline of July 31, 2012.

Please note a new item on the list of Campaign donors this year: several references to "Friends" groups that have raised gifts in honor of revered teachers. The appeals currently underway honor

George Goold
George Kennedy
Mary Lefkowitz
Zeph Stewart.

The organizers of these groups felt that soliciting gifts to the Campaign for our future was an appropriate way to honor these distinguished Classicists who helped the APA to flourish in the past and whose contributions to the field live on today. Donations of any amount are ascribed both to the individual donor and to the appropriate Friends group. In addition, as is our custom, a donor of $250 or more may choose to add this tribute to the listing of his or her individual gift. (Please note that not all qualifying donors chose to make such a designation.) We encourage members to start new Friends groups, and ask only that they notify the Executive Director before beginning solicitations.

The contributions listed below represent pledges that total $1,900,000. Of that amount over $1,600,000 has been received and invested. These funds are the foundation from which we will provide essential resources for Classics scholars and students for decades to come, and we are happy to recognize the donors who have made this possible.
